IOWA EARNS D+ GRADE FOR TEACHER POLICIES IN NEW EDITION OF NATIONAL YEARBOOK

STATE DEMONSTRATES SLIGHT PROGRESS IN STATE TEACHER POLICIES SINCE 2015

Washington, DC--Today, the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) released its bi-annual 2017 State Teacher Policy Yearbook, finding that states' previous rapid progress to modernize their teacher policies has largely slowed. Iowa's overall grade for its teaching policies went from a D in 2015 to a D+ grade in 2017. By comparison, the overall grade nationally stagnated, staying at a C- grade.

From 2007 until 2015, most states took aggressive steps to improve the teaching profession. However, since the last edition of the Yearbook in 2015, few states have initiated any new actions to improve their policies guiding how teachers are selected, prepared, evaluated, and retained. As a result, state grades have mostly stagnated, with more state grades decreasing than at any other time in the Yearbook's history.

This year, among all 50 states and the District of Columbia, 31 states earned a higher grade than Iowa, 10 states performed as well as Iowa, and nine states earned a lower grade. Florida and Louisiana each earned a B+, the highest grade in this year's Yearbook.

"States' teacher policies have an enormous impact on the quality of education in the state," said Elizabeth Ross, Managing Director of State Policy at NCTQ. "By highlighting opportunities for improvement, as well as strong policies, this Yearbook is designed to catalyze state action. We know the progress states are capable of making and urge them to do so. Teachers and students deserve nothing less."

Iowa has several key opportunities for growth. In its 2017 Yearbook, NCTQ reported that the state earned F grades in Elementary Teacher Preparation and in Teacher Compensation. Iowa also earns a D-grade in Secondary Teacher Preparation and Retaining Effective Teachers policies and a D grade in its Alternate Route Teacher Preparation policies.

In contrast, Iowa earned commendation for strong teacher policies in Middle School and Special Education Licensure Deficiencies because the state does not allow generalist licenses for those areas. The Yearbook named Iowa a "Best Practice" state in Measures of Professional Practice because the state requires that all teacher evaluations include observations by multiple observers and student survey data, and be conducted by trained and certified evaluators.
