KANSAS EARNS D+ GRADE FOR TEACHER POLICIES IN NEW EDITION OF NATIONAL YEARBOOK

STATE DEMONSTRATES NO CHANGE IN STATE TEACHER POLICIES TO IMPROVE TEACHER QUALITY SINCE 2015

Washington, DC--Today, the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) released its bi-annual 2017 State Teacher Policy Yearbook, finding that states' previous rapid progress to modernize their teacher policies has largely slowed. Kansas's overall grade for its teaching policies remained at a D+, the same grade it received in the 2015 State Teacher Policy Yearbook. By comparison, the overall grade nationally remained unchanged, staying at a C- grade.

From 2007 until 2015, most states took aggressive steps to improve the teaching profession. However, since the last edition of the Yearbook in 2015, few states have initiated any new actions to improve their policies guiding how teachers are selected, prepared, evaluated, and retained. As a result, state grades have mostly stagnated, with more state grades decreasing than at any other time in the Yearbook's history.

This year, among all 50 states and the District of Columbia, 31 states earned a higher grade than Kansas, 10 states performed as well as Kansas, and nine states earned a lower grade. Florida and Louisiana both earned B+ grades, the highest in this year's Yearbook.

"States' teacher policies have an enormous impact on the quality of education in the state," said Elizabeth Ross, Managing Director of State Policy at NCTQ. "By highlighting opportunities for improvement, as well as strong policies, this Yearbook is designed to catalyze state action. We know the progress states are capable of making and urge them to do so. Teachers and students deserve nothing less."

Kansas has several key opportunities for growth. In its 2017 Yearbook, the state earned an F for its policies governing Elementary Teacher Preparation, under which the state does little to ensure that elementary teacher candidates have the proper knowledge of core content areas, including teaching reading. The state also earned a D- for its policies regarding Special Education Teacher Preparation, Alternate Route Teacher Preparation, and Teacher Compensation.

Kansas earned its highest grade, a C+, for its policies concerning Preparation of Secondary Teachers, which includes its strong policies in Middle School and Secondary Content Knowledge.
