MAINE EARNS D+ GRADE FOR TEACHER POLICIES IN NEW EDITION OF NATIONAL YEARBOOK

STATE DEMONSTRATES DECLINE IN STATE TEACHER POLICIES SINCE 2015

Washington, DC--Today, the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) released its bi-annual 2017 State Teacher Policy Yearbook, finding that states' previous rapid progress to modernize their teacher policies has largely slowed. Maine's overall grade for its teaching policies went from a C- grade in 2015 to a D+ in 2017. By comparison, the overall grade nationally stagnated, staying at a C- grade.

From 2007 until 2015, most states took aggressive steps to improve the teaching profession. However, since the last edition of the Yearbook in 2015, few states have initiated any new actions to improve their policies guiding how teachers are selected, prepared, evaluated, and retained. As a result, state grades have mostly stagnated, with more state grades decreasing than at any other time in the Yearbook's history.

This year, 31 states earned a higher grade than Maine, 10 states performed as well as Maine, and nine states earned a lower grade. Florida and Louisiana each earned a B+, the highest grade in this year's Yearbook.

"States' teacher policies have an enormous impact on the quality of education in the state," said Elizabeth Ross, Managing Director of State Policy at NCTQ. "By highlighting opportunities for improvement, as well as strong policies, this Yearbook is designed to catalyze state action. We know the progress states are capable of making and urge them to do so. Teachers and students deserve nothing less."

Maine has several key opportunities for growth. In its 2017 Yearbook, NCTQ reported that Maine earned a D- grade in its General Teacher Preparation and Teacher Compensation policies and a D grade in its Hiring, Teacher and Principal Evaluation, and Retaining Effective Teachers policies.

Maine earned its top scores -- C- grades -- in Elementary Teacher Preparation, Special Education Teacher Preparation, and Alternate Route Teacher Preparation. The state earned commendation for its strong policies in Teaching Mathematics under Elementary Teacher Preparation and Middle School and Secondary Content Knowledge under Secondary Teacher Preparation.
