NEVADA EARNS C- GRADE FOR TEACHER POLICIES IN NEW EDITION OF NATIONAL YEARBOOK

STATE DEMONSTRATES NO SIGNIFICANT PROGRESS IN STATE TEACHER POLICIES SINCE 2015

Washington, DC--Today, the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) released its bi-annual 2017 State Teacher Policy Yearbook, finding that states' previous rapid progress to modernize their teacher policies has largely slowed. Nevada's overall grade for its teaching policies remained at a C- grade between 2015 and 2017. This mirrored the overall grade nationally, which also stayed flat at a C- grade.

From 2007 until 2015, most states took aggressive steps to improve the teaching profession. However, since the last edition of the Yearbook in 2015, few states have initiated any new actions to improve their policies guiding how teachers are selected, prepared, evaluated, and retained. As a result, state grades have mostly stagnated, with more state grades decreasing than at any other time in the Yearbook's history.

This year, among all 50 states and the District of Columbia, 27 states earned a higher grade than Nevada, three states performed as well as Nevada, and 20 states earned a lower grade. Florida and Louisiana each earned a B+, the highest grade in this year's Yearbook.

"States' teacher policies have an enormous impact on the quality of education in the state," said Elizabeth Ross, Managing Director of State Policy at NCTQ. "By highlighting opportunities for improvement, as well as strong policies, this Yearbook is designed to catalyze state action. We know the progress states are capable of making and urge them to do so. Teachers and students deserve nothing less."

Nevada has several key opportunities for growth. In its 2017 Yearbook, NCTQ reported that the state earned F grades for its policies concerning Elementary Teacher Preparation and Special Education Teacher Preparation.

The state's highest marks were C+ grades for its policies governing Teacher Compensation and Retaining Effective Teachers. The Yearbook named Nevada a "Best Practice" state for its Dismissal policies, under which it enables districts to dismiss teachers on the basis of ineffective classroom performance.

The full 2017 State Teacher Policy Yearbook is available here, with comprehensive information regarding each state's teacher policies available in NCTQ's State Teacher Policy Database.
