WYOMING EARNS D GRADE FOR TEACHER POLICIES IN NEW EDITION OF NATIONAL YEARBOOK

STATE DEMONSTRATES NO PROGRESS IN ITS STATE TEACHER POLICIES TO IMPROVE TEACHER QUALITY SINCE 2015

Washington, DC--Today, the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) released its bi-annual 2017 State Teacher Policy Yearbook, finding that states' previous rapid progress to modernize their teacher policies has largely slowed. Wyoming's overall grade for its teaching policies remained at a D in 2017, the same grade it earned in the 2015 State Teacher Policy Yearbook. By comparison, the overall grade nationally also remained unchanged from 2015, staying at a C- grade.

From 2007 until 2015, most states took aggressive steps to improve the teaching profession. However, since the last edition of the Yearbook in 2015, few states have initiated any new actions to improve their policies guiding how teachers are selected, prepared, evaluated, and retained. As a result, state grades have mostly stagnated, with more state grades decreasing than at any other time in the Yearbook's history.

This year, among all 50 states and the District of Columbia, 42 states earned a higher grade than Wyoming, four states performed as well as Wyoming, and four states earned a lower grade. Florida and Louisiana both earned B+ grades, the highest in this year's Yearbook.

"States' teacher policies have an enormous impact on the quality of education in the state," said Elizabeth Ross, Managing Director of State Policy at NCTQ. "By highlighting opportunities for improvement, as well as strong policies, this Yearbook is designed to catalyze state action. We know the progress states are capable of making and urge them to do so. Teachers and students deserve nothing less."

Wyoming has several key opportunities for growth. In its 2017 Yearbook, NCTQ reported that the state earned an F for its policies related to General Teacher Preparation, Special Education Teacher Preparation, and Alternate Route Teacher Preparation. It also earned a D- for its policies related to Secondary Teacher Preparation and Teacher and Principal Evaluation, a D for its policies in Hiring, and a D+ for its policies governing Teacher Compensation and Retaining Effective Teachers.

Wyoming earned its highest grade, a C-, in Elementary Teacher Preparation, where the state is implementing strong policies regarding Teaching Elementary Mathematics.
